COMEDY DUO EMBARKS ON EUROPEAN TOUR

BON VOYAGE!

These were the scenes as Laurel and Hardy arrived in the UK on their European tour. The comedic duo are currently playing a run of theatre dates in a departure from the silver screen. This will be a return home of sorts for Stan Laurel who himself was born in Ulverston, Lancashire. His parents were both active in the world of theatre so it would seem that treading the boards runs in the family.

The duo have been writing and performing together for 26 years and have enjoyed a glittering career in cinema. Their signature tune, known as 'The Dance of the Cuckoo', is played over the opening credits of each of their films and will be used as the introduction to their stage show.

BRITISH CLIMBERS CONQUER EVEREST

EXPLORERS SUCCEED ON NINTH ATTEMPT

Climbers from Britain became the first of the Alpine Club and the Royal Geographical Society.

The mountain was identified as the highest peak in the world during the 1850s. Many have tried to conquer it's famous heights but few have been able to achieve the almost impossible feat. New routes have been discovered and have proved the key to cracking the code of the mountain.

LAUREL AND HARDY TAKE THE UK BY STORM

TODAY IN SOCIETY!

Hollywood comedy legends Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are enjoying packed out audiences on their UK stage tour. The double-act, famous for films such as Way Out West, Sons of the Desert and The Flying Deuces were thought to be in the twilight of their career. But a recent tour of Britain has rekindled love for the tinseltown legends.

The tour comes at a time when there are rumours that they may return to the big screen, with a script based on the classic tale of Robin Hood. It remains to be seen whether the success of this tour will be enough to get the picture off the ground, but at least Stan and Ollie are enjoying one more dance in the spotlight.

LIGHTNING STRIKES THREE

Three were killed and two seriously injured

CHAPLIN'S 'LIMELIGHT' FADES IN THE BOX OFFICE

Three were killed on a golf course in Southern California yesterday following a lightning strike on the ninth green. By-standers were left in shock following a blinding flash of light as storms rumbled overhead. Ambulances were called but the players were declared dead on arrival.

An investigation is being launched by the club to ascertain why the members were allowed to play despite the incoming tropical storm front. The club is keen to reassure its members that the course is completely safe and that every check has been made to ensure their safety on the course.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II WEARS BREATH-TAKING GOWN TO CORONATION

Celebrations have reached fever pitch in the United Kingdom as crowds celebrate the Queen's coronation. She was resplendent in a gown designed by Mr. and emblems of Great Britain and the Commonwealth. The coronation took place in Westminster Abbey, with Elizabeth becoming the sixth Queen to be crowned there. The Queen travelled to her coronation in the Golden State Coach, which was pulled by eight magnificent grey horses. Her bouquet was full of crisp white flowers, in-
